THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

This Department will be arranged with reference to the wants of young men of piety and promise, who may be called of God to the work of the Christian Ministry, and whom age or circumstances will not permit to take a complete course of study. It will be the aim of this department to assist such young men in the endeavor to become efficient preachers and pastors, though necessarily deprived of the advantages arising from a thorough College Course.

GOVERNMENT.

It is designed to maintain, at all times, a careful supervision of the students, both in regard to their attention to study, and their general deportment.

While the government of the College is mild it will be firm, and will aim to secure, at all times, good order, and to cultivate habits of prompt obedience to wholesome law.

It will seek, as far as possible, to throw the students upon their own sense of honor, thus striving to elevate them to the dignity of self-governing men and women.

Students are required to be present at Chapel Exercises, and to attend public worship on Sabbath morning at such church as they may prefer.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are three Literary Societies connected with the College, of whose advantages the students are encouraged to avail themselves.

MEMORIAL HALL.

In commemoration of the patriotic services of the one hundred and twenty-five students of this University, who participated in the late struggle for the preservation of the Union, one of the rooms in the College Building has been set apart as a Memorial Hall. A beautiful marble slab has been erected, upon which are engraved, with appropriate inscriptions, the names of our twenty fallen heroes.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

ORIGIN.

The Central University of Iowa, is owned by and subjected to the control of the Baptists of Iowa, it having been established and located at Pella in 1853 by the unanimous vote of a convention called for the purpose of locating a College.

DESIGN.

It was intended to be for the Baptist Churches just what its name implies: The Central University of Iowa.

HISTORY.

Since the establishment of the Institution between two and three thousand persons have received its instruction; of this number sixty or more have entered the learned professions, five occupy editorial chairs, one has been State Superintendent of Public Instruction, one a County Superintendent, and some three hundred have been teachers.

WAR RECORD.

At the opening of the war in 1861, many of its students responded to the call for soldiers, and at the close of the summer term in 1862, there was not an able bodied man of sufficient age to bear arms in the Institution. Prof. Currier and 114 students enlisted in the Union army. Of these 26 were commissioned officers, and 21 fell on the battle field.

PRESENT CONDITION.

The attendance during the past year has been largely increased, and the prospect for the coming year is still more promising. The last Commencement was a period of much interest. A large number of the former students returned and all seemed much devoted to the interests of the College.

RELIGIOUS CULTURE.

The Central University was founded in prayer. The discipline of the heart is sought, as well as discipline of the mind; the truth that "out of the heart are the issues of life" being clearly recognized. The primary object is to cultivate everything noble in the pupil and thereby develop the true man or true woman. A student with his intellectual faculties developed and his moral powers dwarfed, may make a learned scholar, or a shrewd villain, but not a great man, for there is no true greatness without goodness.

SOCIAL CULTURE.

For the proper development and training of the social feelings, the students, with the teachers, occasionally spend an evening in social intercourse, interspersed with essays, declamations, select reading, music, &c.

COURSE OF STUDY.

There are now two distinct courses of study—Academic and Collegiate. In the former students are fitted for the Collegiate Course and given a hasty preparation for some of the more immediately practical duties of life, such as Book-keeping, Teaching, &c. In the latter the work begun in the Academic Department is carried forward through a full classical course and is designed to fit the student for the higher walks of society and professional life.

ADMISSION.

Students wishing to enter advanced classes will be examined in the previous studies of the course or their equivalent.

Much is lost by not beginning with the first of any session and students should endeavor to be present at the opening of the term.

EXAMINATIONS.

Examinations of new students for admission to advanced classes will occur the day next preceding the opening of each term.

General examinations by the Faculty at the close of each term, and annual examinations by the appropriate committees during Commencement week.

TEXT BOOKS.

Hadley's Grammar, Boise's Lessons, Anabasis and Homer, Anthon's Memorabilia, Johnson's Herodotus, Champ-lin's De Corona, Liddell and Scott's Lexicon.

Harkness' Grammar, Reader, Cæsar and Prose Composition, Chase and Stuart's Nepos, Virgil, Amicitia, Livy, Horace and Tusculan Disputations, Tyler's Tacitus, Andrew's, or White and Riddle's Lexicon and Currier's Suffixes.

Greene's Grammar, Hart's Composition and Rhetoric, Willson's Outlines of History and Barnes' U. S. History.

Arithmetic, Davies' University Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Analytical Geometry and Surveying.

Huxley's Physiology, Gray's Botany, Guyot's Physical Geography.

Hamilton's Mental Philosophy, Wayland's Moral Philosophy, Dodge's Evidences of Christianity, Wayland's Political Economy.

DIPLOMAS.

Those who complete the College Course, and sustain examination on the studies of the same, are entitled to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Those who have been engaged in Literary Pursuits during at least three years from the time of their College Graduation, are entitled to the Degree of Master of Arts. Those who complete the Scientific Course, are entitled to the Degree of Bachelor of Philosophy, and those who are dismissed from any part of the regular course, are entitled to a Certificate showing their standing and attainments.

No Degree, however, can be conferred or Certificate given, unless the applicant shall have sustained a good moral character, settled all College Bills, and returned all books to the Library.

The fee for the Degrees in Course, including Diploma, is FIVE DOLLARS each, payable in advance.

THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

To meet the urgent demand to render some aid to a class of men now entering upon the work of the Christian Ministry who have not had the advantage of a suitable education, and whose age or other circumstances preclude the possibility of their taking a full course, arrangements have been made to give some instruction to this class in Church History, Exegetical and Doctrinal Theology, Homiletics and Pastoral Care, in addition to studies taught in the regular courses. The studies in this department will be regulated in all cases by the present attainments and wants of the students; also by the time they can devote to study, the object being simply to do the best we may be able to do for the students in this department, during the time they may remain in the Institution.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

The value of Music as a means of culture as well as an accomplishment, is only beginning to be recognized by educators. The Institution, as is confidently believed, offers to all desiring to pursue the study, such advantages as are equalled by few and surpassed by no similar institution in the West.

GOVERNMENT.

The government of the Institution, while it will be firm, will at all times be administered so as to secure good order and cheerful obedience to necessary laws, by the mildest means possible. Students will at all times be placed upon their honor, and special rules will be established only when circumstances may demand them.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

This Association is now fully organized. Its meeting at the last Commencement was one of great interest and promise. All parts of the Great Valley of the Mississippi were represented. The evidence was clear and conclusive that the Central University has taken a strong hold on the inhabitants of this wide spread country, and is too thoroughly rooted to be easily shaken or overthrown.

LOCATION.

Pella, the seat of the University, is situated forty miles south-east of Des Moines, on the Keokuk & Des Moines Railway, and is of easy access from all parts of the State. It is a small city of about 3,000 inhabitants, standing on a gentle rise of ground, in one of the most beautiful prairie sections of the State.

ADVANTAGES.

The location is healthy, the morals of the town are good, expenses are extremely low, and the course of study is well adapted to the wants of Western life.

FINANCES.

An endowment of $50,000 has been completed, which, under the peculiar circumstances can only be regarded as evidence of special Divine favor. It is interesting to see that so large a portion of this sum has been contributed by old students and former friends and patrons of the Institution. Those who know it best prize it most. More funds will be needed in the future, but the completion of this first $50,000 endowment ever raised by the Baptists of Iowa for educational work, not only marks a new era in our history, but places the College on a sure and substantial foundation.

CONCLUSION.

The year past has been one of marked progress, and the prospects for the future never were brighter. Our endowment of $50,000 is now completed. Our college classes are organized, and ample arrangements made for complete college work. The number of students now in attendance is large, and every prospect indicates that the number will be much increased during the year to come. With the same Divine favor that has attended this enterprise in years past, and the hearty co-operation of the friends of the College, success is sure.

General Information.

ORIGIN.

The Central University had its origin in the felt want of the Baptist denomination, for an institution of learning at some central point. A convention that convened pursuant to a call issued to every Baptist church in Iowa by a unanimous vote established the institution at Pella, in Marion county, and denominated it the Central University of Iowa. This action has been so effectively endorsed by liberal contributions and generous patronage that it has placed the College among the leading institutions west of the Mississippi, and is now the largest Baptist College in Iowa.

LOCATION.

The Central University of Iowa is located in a quiet rural town, in one of the most beautiful and productive sections of the State. In 1870 the township had a population of four thousand nine hundred and fifty-eight. A population sufficiently large to insure good church and social privileges, but not so large as to interfere with close habits of study. The experience for the last one hundred years, fully demonstrate that large commercial cities should be avoided in the selection of places for college work. At such points the student is not only subject to extra expense and needless temptation, but there is so much to divert the attention of students, that the mind does not readily reach its higher forms of development. Hence the leading men in the pulpit, at the bar, and in the halls of Congress, of college culture, where mainly educated in colleges other than those located in large cities.

Chicago reports three colleges, Boston two, St. Louis three, New York six, Brooklyn three, Philadelphia three, total—twenty. These twenty colleges in the 44th Congress have but two representatives, while the University of Virginia, the college founded by Thomas Jefferson, and located at the base of the Blue Ridge, some two miles from the village of Charlottesville, Va., has nine representatives. *The college with a quiet location is the place to produce strong men.

Pella is on the Keokuk and Des Moines Railroad very near the center of the population of the State. No more central location could now be chosen. The foreign population is principally Holland, not German. This seems providential as they are very religious, and strict in the observance of the Sabbath. The location seems admirably adapted to thorough college work.

GROUNDS.

The site of this college is an elevated plateau just within the limits of the city and contains eight acres of beautiful land, with broad streets on the four sides, which prevent the possibility of encroachment, insuring clear sunlight, pure air, freedom from noise and fire. The grounds are finely ornamented with trees.

(*See report of Committee of Education for 1875, page 718; also Congressional Directory 44th Congress, 2d term.)

MUSEUM.

In addition to collections obtained from Egypt, Palestine, Assam, and other Mission fields, a collection valued at some five or six hundred dollars has been received from California, through the liberality of Rev. Wm. Hildreth; also a valuable collection from the South Sea Islands by Rev. J. W. Henry. Choice specimens have been donated by Rev. Mr. Butts and other individuals in this state.

THE READING ROOM.

A Reading Room has been established in which may be found the leading papers of the country, including many of our own state and several of the best monthlies and quarterlies. It is open every afternoon.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

All the students are required to attend worship in the College Chapel, on the morning of each recitation day, and also to attend public worship on Sunday at such place as they, their parents, or guardians, may select. The moral and religious culture of the students will be regarded by the Faculty as of prime importance, and they will always be found encouraging student's prayer meetings and bible classes.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

This Association is now fully organized. Its meeting at the last Commencement was one of great interest and promise. All parts of the Great Valley of the Mississippi were represented. The evidence was clear and conclusive that the Central University has taken a strong hold on the inhabitants of this wide spread country, and is too thoroughly rooted to be easily shaken or overthrown.

COURSE OF STUDY.

There are now two distinct courses of study—Academic and Collegiate. In the former, students are fitted for the Collegiate Course and given a hasty preparation for some of the practical duties of life, such as Book-keeping, Teaching etc. In the latter the work begun in the Academic Department is carried forward through a full classical course and is designed to fit the student for the higher walks of society and professional life.

ADMISSION.

Students wishing to enter advanced classes will be examined in the previous studies of the course or their equivalent.

Much is lost by not beginning with the first of any session and students should endeavor to be present at the opening of the term.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.

To meet the urgent demand of men now entering upon the work of the Christian Ministry whose age or other circumstances preclude the possibility of their taking a full course, arrangements have been made to give some instructions in Church History, Exegetical and Doctrinal Theology, Homiletics and Pastoral Care.

The Central University was founded in prayer and all of its instructors are in harmony with the sacredness of the ministerial calling, seeking not only to "court earnestly the best gifts," but also use them for the highest and best ends.

FREE TUITION.

Through the liberality of friends abroad such provisions have been made that we now offer free tuition to all students who enter the ministry among us, and who wish to study in this institution.

Students wishing to avail themselves of this offer will be expected to bring letters of approval from their respective churches.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

The value of music as a means of culture as well as an accomplishment is now beginning to be realized by educators and the demand is rapidly increasing. This department is now under the supervision of able and experienced teachers and it is believed that students in music will find in the west but few institutions with equal advantages.

ELOCUTION.

The Trustees deem it exceedingly fortunate that they have been able to secure the services of an able and experienced Professor in the too much neglected department of Elocution. Prof. Schermerhorn, being an author of a valuable text book on elocution, as well as a practical teacher, will be able to give the most thorough instruction in this department.

LEARNED PRIZE.

This is the interest of $50.00 at ten per cent for the best speaker among the undergraduates at the annual commencement.

EXAMINATIONS.

The classes in both departments are examined at the close of each term. The examinations are partly oral and partly written, and have an important bearing upon the standing of the student in his class. No student can advance from one class to another without sustaining the regular examinations.

RHETORICAL EXERCISES.

Students in the regular courses meet weekly in their respective classes for rhetorical exercises. Other students are assigned to classes for these exercises, according to their attainments.

LECTURES.

It is designed to make Lectures a prominent feature in our educational system, not as a substitute for text books and recitation room drill, for which there can be no substitute, but as supplementary, and as furnishing facilities for viewing particular subjects either in fuller detail, or in their more general relations.

DIPLOMAS.

Those who complete the College Course, and sustain the examination on the studies of the same, are entitled to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Those who have been engaged in Literary Pursuits during at least three years from the time of their College Graduation, are entitled to the Degree of Master of Arts. Those who complete the Scientific Course are entitled to the Degree of Bachelor of Philosophy, and those who are dismissed from any part of the regular course, are entitled to a Certificate showing their standing and attainments.

No Degree, however, can be conferred or Certificate given, unless the applicant shall have sustained a good moral character, settled all College Bills, and returned all books to the Library.

The fee for the Degree in Course, including Diploma, is FIVE DOLLARS each, payable in advance.

GOVERNMENT.

The government of the Institution, while it will be firm, will at all times be administered so as to secure good order and cheerful obedience to necessary laws, by the mildest means possible. Students will at all times be placed upon their honor, and special rules will be established only when circumstances may demand them.

ADVANTAGES.

Many considerations particularly recommend the Central University as a seat of liberal learning. Its courses of study are thorough and comprehensive; students in it are particularly free from incentives to dissipation; and are constantly subject to a strong Christian influence: the location of the University is beautiful and salubrious; living is cheap; and the intellectual life of the College is strengthened by favorable surroundings.

CONCLUSION.

The year past has been one of marked progress, and the prospects for the future never were brighter. The number of students now in attendance is large, and every prospect indicates that the number will be much increased during the year to come. With the same Divine favor that has attended this enterprise in years past, and the hearty co-operation of the friends of the College, success is certain.

CIRCULAR
EXECUTIVE BOARD OF THE
Central University of Iowa.
PELLA, IOWA, JULY 22, 1880.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT US.

Extract from the Report of the Examining Committee.

JUNE 10, 1880.

The past year of the University has been one of encouragement, not only in the numbers enrolled, but in the proficiency of the work, as shown by the unusually large percentage in the standing of the several classes; and it was the common consent of those present at the examinations and exercises of the Commencement, that the CENTRAL UNIVERSITY OF IOWA was doing a grand and telling work for the West, and should by all means be sustained. Situated in a beautiful but quiet rural town, in the midst of the garden prairies of the West, with a large and beautiful campus, and a community pre-eminently moral and temperate, Pella certainly presents attractions of superior value to the students, as well as to parents who are interested quite as much in the health and morals of the student as their intellectual advantages.

It is encouraging also to note the financial prospects of the University. Its income for some years now has been more than sufficient to meet its current expenses, and with a few more thousands added to its endowment fund its capability of being self-sustaining will be beyond question. It is evidently growing in confidence among its friends and gaining a wider sympathy each year. During the closing exercises a communication from an alumnus in the Far West was received, announcing a donation of $4,000 and a promise of more. So taking all things together the Board are more hopeful than for years, and will spare no pains to make the most sanguine desires of all realized in its grander future.

From the "Weekly Visitor," Pella.

Extracts from Commencement report.

Pella is justly proud of the institution located with her. Central University of Iowa is one of the oldest institutions in this part of the State. The annual Commencement occurred last week. Baccalaureate by the President. The annual missionary sermon, Rev. T. J. Keith, Waverly. Address before the Literary Societies, W. A. Welcher, Harlan, and L. A. Woodruff, D. D., Des Moines. Annual sermon, Rev. A. T. Dunn, Boston. On Tuesday afternoon a large audience gathered at the Baptist Church to listen to the orations of the matriculates and the contestants for the Learned prize. The interest taken in this performance was shown in the fact that a sky that threatened rain did not prevent the people from coming. In the evening was the address before the Alumni, by Col. David Ryan, Class '61. * * * Wednesday of course was the chief day. An immense audience gathered in the upper room of the Baptist church where the exercises were to take place. Even in this large room the seats were not ample to accommodate all. * * * At half past 5 P. M. the Alumni Association met at the Baptist Church. In the evening there was a sociable. Thus pleasantly closed the exercises of a most pleasant Commencement.

From the daily Iowa State Register, Des Moines.

Extract from Commencement Report.

Although Wednesday dawned inauspiciously the weather turned out more favorable than expected. Long before the hour fixed for the opening exercises, the people were on their way to the church in vast crowds. At 10:30 A. M. the procession arrived at the church from the College ground, under direction of Capt. Cox, and preceded by Cox's Light Infantry Band, twenty-two members, in full uniform. The church building was crowded to uncomfortableness; it seems that the interest in Commencement is increasing year by year. * * The graduating class numbered five. * * Mr. J. H. Applegate, a candidate for the degree of A. M., delivered a Master's Oration. It was a scholarly production—an effort of which the speaker has cause to be proud. * After the benediction the procession was formed and marched to the college campus, where the tables were groaning under the load of good things to eat. After satisfying the inner man, toasts and responses were given.

Editorial.

The closing exercises at this institution occurred last week, the examinations, however, having begun on Friday of the week previous, and closing on the Monday following. They are spoken of as being highly creditable to the institution. The baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Dr. Dunn on Sunday morning, 6th inst., and the sermon before the Society for Missionary Inquiry in the evening of the same day. On Monday evening the addresses before the Literary Societies were delivered by Rev. W. A. Welsher and Rev. L. M. Woodruff, D. D., of Des Moines. These with the Sunday sermons are spoken of in terms of high eulogy. * The Commencement occurred on Wednesday. * The whole occasion, from first to last, seems to have been of a kind to afford high encouragement to the friends of the University.

Continuation of the Annual Commencement Exercises at the Central University—A Class of Five Receive their Diplomas—Interesting Exercises, and the Orations of the Graduates all Creditable—The Last Day a Proof of the Good Work of the Year.

In our last week's issue we closed our report of the annual Commencement exercises with Monday's oral examinations. On Monday evening the addresses before the literary societies were delivered.

Tuesday's Exercises.—At 8 o'clock in the morning occurred the annual meeting of the Board. At 11 A. M., the annual sermon. At 2:30 P. M., occurred the graduating exercises of the Academic Department.

The Last Day and the Best.—About 9 o'clock in the morning the throng began to wend their way to the College. Citizens, strangers, visitors, professors, students, all ages and classes of both sexes continued to gather, until 10 o'clock. An immense procession was formed under direction of Capt. Cox, and marched (headed by Cox's Light Infantry Band) from the College to the Baptist Church. The church was soon filled to uncomfortable fullness.

Facts Ever to be Remembered.

The Central University had its origin in the felt want of the Baptist denomination for an institution of learning at some central point. A convention that convened pursuant to a call issued to every Baptist church in Iowa, by a unanimous vote established the institution at Pella, in Marion county, and denominated it the CENTRAL UNIVERSITY OF IOWA. This action has been so effectively endorsed by liberal contributions and generous patronage that it has placed the college among the leading institutions west of the Mississippi, and it is now the largest Baptist College in Iowa.

Facts to be Weighed.

1st. The Central University of Iowa has a beautiful location with very favorable surroundings.

2d. It has a larger faculty and larger college classes than any other Baptist school in Iowa.

3d. It has a firmer financial basis than any other Baptist school in this State now claiming to do college work.

Facts Demonstrated.

1st. That Colleges flourish best in quiet, rural towns, and that a State Capital or a large city is not the best place for a College. Columbian College, intended to be the great Baptist College of America, was located at Washington, D. C., in 1821, and now reports only 41 students.* Madison University, located by a few humble, unpretending Baptists of an inland section of New York, was commenced as an Academy in 1834, at Hamilton, a farming town, and received a college charter in 1846. It now reports 113 college students. According to the last report now at command, Columbian College has educated only 114 ministers. Madison 1400.

2d. It is also demonstrated that more than three-fourths of all of our college Presidents and older educators are decidedly in favor of the country rural town for the college. We have the written statement of a large number of this class, and 87 out of 100 favor the country location.

3d. The early Baptists acted wisely in locating their Central University in the quiet, rural town of Pella.

Questions to be Considered.

1st. Would not all students and parents, wishing to avail themselves of the advantages of an institution of higher learning, do well to visit Pella and learn the facts in regard to the College in this place? Many considerations particularly recommend the Central University as a seat of liberal learning. Its courses of study are thorough and comprehensive; students in it are particularly free from incentives to dissipation, and are constantly subject to a strong Christian influence; the location of the University is beautiful and salubrious; living is cheap; and the intellectual life of the College is strengthened by favorable surroundings.

2d. Would not persons having funds to contribute for educational purposes, do well to follow the example of George Washington, and give to support a College in a small town where expenses are low, and a little money will accomplish a great amount of work, rather than give to support institutions in large places where expenses are high, and where large expenditures are required to do a little work.

ARRANGEMENTS are being made for a full corps of efficient teachers. The next term commences Sept. 9th. For catalogue or further particulars address the President, DR. L. A. DUNN, or the undersigned.

S. WEST, Sec'y of Board.

*NOTE.—We found Pres. Welling in his lecture room, and were most kindly permitted to hear his valuable lecture to the junior class (numbering 5) on the History of Philosophy. The senior class is about the size of the junior. For a college, pure and simple, the location of Columbian University is not particularly good. Students from Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland will naturally go to institutions in those States. I failed to get the last Catalogue; but in the latest which I have, out of the 41 college students all but two were from the District. This makes but a scanty field for a college. And indeed I think that parents living in Washington would prefer to send their children to a school located in a place where there were not so many things to keep the mind diverted and heated to the red-hot pitch. To lads from 16 to 20 it is of course exciting to hear all the debates, and to keep up with all the political gossip, but it is not very profitable.—[“W.” in the National Baptist, April 21, 1880.]

The failure of crops during the two years covered by this catalogue and the stringency in money matters has had a damaging effect upon our advanced classes, and many for the want of pecuniary means to prosecute their studies have turned to other employments. But with the return of prosperity in the State a large increase in all departments is confidently expected.

General Information.

ORIGIN.

The Central University had its origin in the felt want of the Baptist denomination, for an institution of learning at some central point. A convention that convened pursuant to a call issued to every Baptist church in Iowa, by a unanimous vote established the institution at Pella, in Marion county, and denominated it the Central University of Iowa. This action has been so effectively endorsed by liberal contributions and generous patronage that it has placed the College among the leading institutions west of the Mississippi, and is now the largest Baptist College in Iowa.

LOCATION.

The Central University of Iowa is located in a quiet, rural town, in one of the most beautiful and productive sections of the State. In 1870 the township had a population of four thousand nine hundred and fifty-eight, a population sufficiently large to insure good church and social privileges, but not so large as to interfere with close habits of study. The experience of the last one hundred years fully demonstrates that large commercial cities should be avoided in the selection of places for college work. At such points the student is not only subject to extra expense and needless temptation, but there is so much to divert the attention of students, that the mind does not readily reach its higher forms of development. Hence the leading men in the pulpit, at the bar, and in the halls of Congress, of college culture, were mainly educated in colleges other than those located in large cities.

Pella is on the Keokuk and Des Moines Railroad very near the center of the population of the State. No more central location could now be chosen. The foreign population is principally Holland, not German. This seems providential as they are very religious, and strict in the observance of the Sabbath. The location seems admirably adapted to thorough college work.

GROUNDS.

The site of this college is an elevated plateau just within the limits of the city and contains eight acres of beautiful land, with broad streets on the four sides, which prevents the possibility of encroachment, insuring clear sunlight, pure air, freedom from noise and fire. The grounds are finely ornamented with trees.

Courses of Study.

CLASSICAL COURSE.

The Classical Course is the same in its general features as that generally adopted in the best colleges in the West. It affords ample opportunity for the thorough study of the Ancient Languages and such branches of exact Science and Philosophy and History as are best calculated to secure to the student the discipline and information needed in future life. It will be the endeavor of the Trustees and Faculty to make it yearly more and more effective, complete and inviting.

SCIENTIFIC COURSE.

The Scientific Course has been arranged with special reference to the wants of those who may prefer to omit the Greek language and give more attention to other branches of education.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

The Preparatory Department is intended to prepare the students to enter the Freshman Class, and is also so arranged as to be well suited to the wants of those intending to teach or to prepare in a brief space of time for the active duties of practical life.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

The value of music as a means of culture as well as an accomplishment is now beginning to be realized by educators and the demand is rapidly increasing. The department is now under the supervision of able and experienced teachers and it is believed that students in music will find in the west but few institutions with equal advantages.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION AND SERVICES.

The exercises of each day are opened with prayer in the College Chapel, and all the students are required to be present.

All the students are required to attend public worship on the Sabbath at such place as they may choose, or their parents or guardians may direct.

The moral and religious culture of the students will be regarded by the Faculty as of prime importance, and they will always be found encouraging students' prayer meetings and bible classes.

ADMISSION.

Students wishing to enter advanced classes will be examined in the previous studies of the course or their equivalent.

Much is lost by not beginning with the first of any session and students should endeavor to be present at the opening of the term.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.

To meet the urgent demand of men now entering upon the work of the Christian Ministry, whose age or other circumstances preclude the possibility of their taking a full course, arrangements have been made to give some instructions in Church History, Exegetical and Doctrinal Theology Homiletics and Pastoral Care.

The Central University was founded in prayer and all of its instructors are in harmony with the sacredness of the ministerial calling seeking not only to "court earnestly the best gifts," but also to use them for the highest and best ends.

FREE TUITION.

Through the liberality of friends abroad such provisions have been made that we now offer free tuition to all students who enter the ministry among us, and wish to study in this institution.

Students wishing to avail themselves of this offer will be expected to bring letters of approval from their respective churches.

DIPLOMAS.

Those who complete the College Course, and sustain the examination on the studies of the same, are entitled to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Those who have been engaged in Literary Pursuits during at least three years from the time of their College Graduation, are entitled to the Degree of Master of Arts. Those who complete the Scientific Course are entitled to the Degree of Bachelor of Philosophy, and those who are dismissed from any part of the regular course, are entitled to a Certificate showing their standing and attainments.

No Degree, however, can be conferred or Certificate given, unless the applicant shall have sustained a good moral character, settled all College Bills, and returned all books to the Library.

The fee for the Degree in Course, including Diploma, is FIVE DOLLARS each, payable in advance.

GOVERNMENT.

The government of the Institution, while it will be firm, will at all times be administered so as to secure good order and cheerful obedience to necessary laws, by the mildest means possible. Students will at all times be placed upon their honor, and special rules will be established only when circumstances may demand them.

DISCIPLINE.

A record is kept by the Faculty, in which are entered, from time to time, the grade of scholarship of each student, his absences from the exercises of the Institution, and such other facts as are worthy of notice with respect to his general deportment. From this record a report will be made out at the end of each term, and sent to the parent or guardian of each student when requested. In case of deficiency in scholarship, negligence in study, irregularity in attendance upon the exercises of the College, or other improper conduct, the student will be privately admonished, and the parent or guardian will be informed of the fact.

When it is ascertained that a student is getting no good or doing no good at College, even though he be guilty of no outbreak against the authorities, his parent or guardian will be addressed upon the subject, and requested to remove him from the Institution.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

This Association is now fully organized. Its meeting at the last Commencement was one of great interest and promise. All parts of the Great Valley of the Mississippi were represented. The evidence was clear and conclusive that the Central University had taken a strong hold on the inhabitants of this wide spread country, and is too thoroughly rooted to be easily shaken or overthrown.

SOCIETIES.

There are three Literary Societies connected with the college, the Advance, the Philomathian and the Alethian.

THE RAY.

A publication called "The Ray" conducted by the students has been published for three years and has proved to be very serviceable in many directions. It has awakened interest, stimulated thought and served as a bond of union between the present and former students.

THE READING ROOM.

A Reading Room has been established in which may be found the leading papers of the country, including many of our own state and several of the best monthlies and quarterlies. It is open every afternoon.

MUSEUM.

In addition to collections obtained from Egypt, Palestine, Assam, Burnah, The South Seas, and other foreign regions, we have valuable collections from California and from several other states.

PHILOSOPHICAL APPARATUS.

Since the publication of our last catalogue a very excellent Electric Machine and fixtures have been secured which make the Apparatus in this department quite complete. An Orrery and Tellurian have been purchased.

ADVANTAGES.

Many considerations particularly recommend the Central University as a seat of liberal learning. Its courses of study are thorough and comprehensive ; students in it are particularly free from incentives to dissipation, and are constantly subject to a strong Christian influence ; the location of the University is beautiful and salubrious ; living is cheap ; and the intellectual life of the College is strengthened by favorable surroundings.
